Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 5/20/03 has been entered.

Claims 1, 9 and 37-49 have been cancelled. New claims 50-59 have been added.

Drawings

The drawings filed on 3/21/00 have been approved.

Sequence Compliance

This application contains sequence disclosures that are encompassed by the definitions for nucleotide and/or amino acid sequences set forth in 37CFR 1.821(a)(1) and (a)(2). However, this application fails to comply with the requirements of 37 CFR 1.821 through 1.825 for the reason(s) set forth on the attached Notice To Comply With Requirements For Patent Applications Containing Nucleotide Sequence And/Or Amino Acid Sequence Disclosures.

Applicants are required to comply with all of the requirements of 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.821 through 1.825. Any response to this Office Action, which fails to meet all of these requirements, will be considered non-responsive. The nature of the noncompliance with the requirements of 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.821 through 1.825 did not preclude the examination of the application on the merits, the results of which are communicated below.

To avoid damage to a CRF by irradiation, a reply to a notice to comply with the sequence rules should NOT be sent to the 20231 zip code address for the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

Please direct all replies to the United States Patent and Trademark Office via one (1) of the following:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112, 1st paragraph

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 50-54 and 58-59 as newly added are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The previous rejection is maintained as it pertains to the newly added claims for the reasons of record advanced on pages 2-4 of the Office action mailed on 7/29/02.

Applicant's arguments filed on 5/20/03 have been fully considered but are not found persuasive. Applicants have provided the Christ declaration in support of the newly added claims.

The declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 filed 5/20/03 is insufficient to overcome the rejection of claims 50-54 and 58-59 based upon 35 U.S.C 112, 1st paragraph, as set forth in the last Office action because: The instant specification discusses that "despite the plethora of known K+ channel subtypes, experimental and clinical data in human corporal smooth muscle provide evidence for the presence and physiological relevance of only two: (1) the metabolically-gated K+ channel (i.e., K<sub>ATP</sub>), and (2) the large-conductance, calcium-sensitive K+ channel (i.e., the K<sub>Ca</sub> or maxi-K channel). See page 27, in lines 24-28. The Christ declaration provides data regarding possession of two other K+ channels, Kv1.5 and SK3, which appear to cause less heightened contractility of penile smooth muscle. However, it appears that the calcium channel proteins, other than K<sub>ATP</sub> or maxi-K channel, were not described or embraced by the instant specification as the instant specification has stated only K<sub>ATP</sub> or maxi-K are present or physiologically relevant with respect to corporal smooth muscle. See page 4 of the Office action mailed on 7/29/02. This appears to suggest to the skilled artisan that other K+ channels may not be embraced by the invention and that Applicants were not in possession of the K+ channels at the time the invention was made.

Accordingly, the rejection is maintained for the reasons of record.

Claims 50-54 and 58-59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the claimed methods to the extent of nucleotide sequences encoding potassium channel proteins that are  $K_{ATP}$  or maxi-K, does not reasonably provide enablement for all other methods embraced by the claims. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. The previous rejection is maintained as it pertains to the newly added claims for the reasons of record advanced on pages 5-8 of the Office action mailed on 7/29/02.

Applicant's arguments filed on 5/20/03 have been fully considered but are not found persuasive. Applicants have provided the Christ declaration in support of the newly added claims.

The declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 filed 5/20/03 is insufficient to overcome the rejection of claims 50-54 and 58-59 based upon 35 U.S.C 112, 1st paragraph, as set forth in the last Office action because: The instant specification discusses that "despite the plethora of known K+ channel subtypes, experimental and clinical data in human corporal smooth muscle provide evidence for the presence and physiological relevance of only two: (1) the metabolically-gated K+ channel (i.e.,  $K_{ATP}$ ), and (2) the large-conductance, calcium-sensitive K+ channel (i.e., the  $K_{Ca}$  or maxi-K channel). See page 27, in lines 24-28. The Christ declaration provides data regarding possession of two other K+ channels, Kv1.5 and SK3, which appear to cause less heightened contractility of penile smooth muscle. However, it appears that the calcium channel proteins, other than K<sub>ATP</sub> or maxi-K channel, were not considered enabled or embraced by the instant specification as the instant specification has stated only K<sub>ATP</sub> or maxi-K are present or physiologically relevant with respect to corporal smooth muscle. See page 7 of the Office action mailed on 7/29/02. As such it appears from the guidance provided by the instant specification that the other K+ channels embraced by the claims were outside the scope of the enabled invention at the time the invention was made. It appears that the instant specification has not provided adequate guidance, teachings, or working examples that demonstrate or otherwise correlate to (how to) use the other K+ channel proteins when practicing the methods as claimed.

Accordingly, the previous rejection is maintained for the reasons of record.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 55-57 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.
